TEACHER SECURITY SYMBOL

In this brief time I have had with you I have tried to discuss the basic educational structure from the state's point of view. I have discussed three major organizations: the State Department of Public Instruction, colleges and universities, and the public schools. The basic structures of these organizations provide for certain kinds of articulation—but I have tried to point out that I believe the real game is played in a person-to-person interaction.

Education is an exciting endeavor. Let us make sure some of this excitement is instilled in our students. Remember you are in a business that will have profound effects on tomorrow's direction. Let us not take this responsibility too lightly. I would like to close with this thought—"What you are speaks so loudly students can't hear what you are saying."

CANDIDATES FOR NSTA OFFICE

One of our neighbors, Darrell Goar, has been nominated for president of NSTA. Included among his many achievements is the directorship of an ESEA Title III project (THIS). Darrell is also science chairman for the Moline Public Schools. We wish him success in his bid for the NSTA presidency.

A member of the Project ASSIST team has been nominated for NSTA District Director (District VIII—Illinois, Iowa, Missouri). Joe Moore of Davenport, Iowa, is serving as a coordinator of ASSIST efforts in his area, in addition to serving as educational consultant for the Muscatine-Scott County School System. We wish him success in his bid for the directorship.
